Collider was created by Stephen Gygi, a developer on the award winning project Hexapod Defense Force. He wanted to create a game that focused on quick and easy player interaction, something that would appeal to gamers of all skill levels and genres. The result is a fighting game with easy to learn mechanics, combined with clever level design, and great sounding electronic music. This is a demonstration of the prototype that was shown at Penny Arcade Expo, PAX 2010. More information about the game will be available once the game has been released. About this Digital Release This is only a trial and demo of the game, with just some of the features. Future updates and content will be released periodically after release, but we can only see the cost of producing full version content so far. We hope you like this demo and it will encourage you to keep coming back to see the updates as they release. Already have a copy of the game? No problem. You will get a download link in a few days after launch, we just need to modify the launcher to be able to re-send the link. What's new in Cuyo:

Who are we? Past, Present, Future Arena: Blood on the Sand is an ambitious, compelling multi-genre game with amazing potential for long-lasting content by a committed, experienced group of passionate developers. Arena: Blood on the Sand is an FPS, a Role Playing Game (RPG), a Sandbox VR environment, and more! While it is in active development and no release date is set in stone, it might even be fully released before Christmas (2018)! Watch that graphic there, as that could be some VR content you're seeing in the future. Concept of Arena: Blood on the Sand The Arena: Blood on the Sand vision is to rebuild the foundation of First Person Shooter games and of gaming in general. We want to break down the boundaries and barriers that static FPS games create, introducing new mechanics, fresh concepts of gameplay, and vast worlds to explore. To be able to play a traditional FPS game, then we need to have a world to play in, content to play within, characters to control, etc. In Arena: Blood on the Sand, we have all those in a single package in a virtual reality world. This gives a greater sense of presence and immersion that simply isn't available in other gaming environments. To ensure that we maintain that sense of immersion as we modify gameplay concepts for conventional FPS-Gameplay and as we introduce new concepts, we need a game that will allow us to focus and finish polishing the core of Arena: Blood on the Sand. "BOTS" stands for Battle of the Sand and maybe you've caught on by now. The Arena: Blood on the Sand world takes place on Earth, but not as we know it. (It's more Earth-like than your planet Earth). In the world of Arena: Blood on the Sand, we have alien races fighting a war for power and survival. You can expect a friendly community as you build your character. We've got a quick guide for how to start playing and where to get more information on the game. We'd be very pleased to have you join our journey! Our value The world of Arena: Blood on the Sand is based on a sandbox fantasy world. You can expect the kind of gaming with the stories of character creation, exploration and extensive world building where your character does not play a hand in any of that. This is one of the first VR games where you can have the experience of not being a part of the story

Paladin is a fast paced, retro twin stick shooter featuring a retro styling and an emphasis on skill and fun over upgrades and gimmicks. Paladin takes place on an open expanse of planets with a rich physics and environments. Plan your course with guidance from an energy-bar at the bottom of the screen, then thrust your fighter into the fray, risking life and limb in a bid to save mankind. A BIG Thank you to everyone who has supported us so far, and for the fantastic Beta testers. Play this game! Gather Your Rocket... I know I have good reason to Paladin: Aliens vs. Humans A fun game I found it to be a really fun game once I got used to the controls and found a proper playing style. (unless you died, then you pay for those lives). The only problem I found was once you start a new game and you start off at level 1 with no money, there was a point that I could not find a way to get money. It was good for a few of those, but I feel like I hit one that was worse than it had been before. I might have been trying to do a little too much, if I had tried to get all the medals. I got the first 60 on the first try. I know I have good reason to It's a fun game, but at the same time I never managed to get higher than level 3. I don't know if the leaderboard data is outdated or not, but it didn't look like it was on their youtube vid. I only ever saw one other player in the list, and he only had achieved level 40. If I had played the game more, I think I would've gotten it sooner. I'm starting to notice that I can't die from some of the older ones, but the new one gives me the max possible life, so I know why I'm dying now. Had a bad day at the office I'm going to start new story, and I'll give you some news about that when I'm done with this one. Wow, I'm coming to a conclusion, I can't play this game. I am getting so bored of this, it's just so slow. It's like you do this because you're tired of it, and then the game has been going on for a
