Piwik Licensing Contact About Addon Compatibility "The term 'compatibility,' in this context, does not only mean that a library is able to work with an extension that is based on a particular version but, more importantly, it is the ability to work with several extensions based on the same version so that a project can always extend the functionality of any chosen core. "If a project chooses to extend the functionality of an existing version, you will see the displayed version of that extension. If your project chooses to create a new version, you will have an option to select between the displayed versions. "Now, when you go to select a new version of a core, you will see the new version as well as the previous versions of this extension. The reason is that we have created a compatibility layer between the version of a core and its extensions so that you can always have the previous versions of an extension with your core. "The compatibility layer is based on a standard named CSS, the Cascading Style Sheets. If you are not familiar with CSS, you can learn more about it in this Wikipedia page. "When you make a new version of a core, you should always support the previous versions and the new version of this extension."Q: How to use center() of the content?
