A Public Gathering Permit (PGP) is required when a proposal is made to hold a gathering of several people on the territory of the city, which may raise questions or 0.6 pages, as well as for private and public places, and for public gatherings the same laws apply, not just the safety rules reported in the case of private space. The PGP can be filed at any time convenient for you, but in practice it is used at public meetings most often before elections. You don't have to apply every year and you can just apply once. Here's how to get permission to hold public meetings.
